HIGHWAYS IN DISTRICT NO. 4 AGAIN ALL OPEN TO TRAFFIC

No. 8 Kept Open Through Stormy Weather — Dept. Does Efficient Work In Removing Snow — 10 Tons of Material Placed On Icy Roadways To Protect Traffic.

Comments, both locally and from motorists passing through the district, have indicated appreciation of the efficient manner in which the Department of Highways has handled the difficult situation confronting it in connection with keeping passable the main arteries of traffic during the stormy weather of the past week which has now happily abated.

While traffic over other highways has been much impeded because of unusually heavy drifts of snow, Highway No. 8 which enjoys the distinction of being the heaviest travelled in the province has at no time been blocked, in fact it has been in the best condition of any of the highways. Despite the large amount of snow which has drifted onto it from adjacent fields, the highway dept. has been able to keep it in good condition for motoring, much snow having been removed by the snowploughs and an excellent width of roadway kept clear.

Every main thoroughfare in District No. 4, the head office of which is situated in Grimsby, and which has the supervision of the territory from Niagara River to the west, bordered by Jarvis, Guelph, Galt and Oakville, covering about 400 miles and including seven counties, is now open for traffic, according to a representative of the department. In unceasing efforts to keep the highways clear, six large snowploughs and six smaller ones have been engaged since Feb. 13th to date, in this difficult task.

In order to lessen the danger to traffic on account of the icy condition of roadways, applications of small stone chips and screenings to which has been added two or three per cent. of salt, have been made. The salt tends to melt the ice so that the mixture sticks to the road surface. It would otherwise be blown off to the side of the road by the heavy winds or be forced off the roadway by passing traffic. The salt also serves another purpose in that it tends to keep the material, piled at convenient intervals along the roadways, from freezing. In some localities where there is a natural supply of sand this is utilized instead of stone chips.

No less than 10,000 tons of the material referred to above, have been applied to the roads in Division No. 4 up to this time in order to correct road conditions caused by the snow and ice which have been the worst experienced in the past three years.

Small Fruit Farm On The Increase Says U.S. Lecturer

The small fruit farm is on the increase rather than the decline because the local market is always more secure than long-distance selling, according to Dr. R. D. Anthony, State College, Pa. Professor of pomology for 600 students of the 5,000 at the only university in Pennsylvania which is entirely government-endowed. The American lecturer was here for the annual convention of the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario, in session at the Royal Connaught hotel.

Born in Rochester, New York, the agricultural authority is nevertheless strongly sympathetic towards the Canadian viewpoints. Commencing in 1906 he has holidays every summer in Ontario.

"Canada is looking more to the local market, in fruit-farming," he said, in speaking to a Herald representative. "After all, that's the sure way. People who are close to the consumer are the ones who are going to stick in the game. In Pennsylvania, generally speaking, fruit growers pulled through the depression in excellent condition. They were selling close to the consumer, and their costs were low. And they had developed a constant market with a steady demand."

Large orchards, of course, will be developed in this country for export trade and carload shipments. But Dr. Anthony does not commend a country seeking to be a large exporter in the apple world market with its changing tariff walls.

Young People's Societies To Hold Joint Meeting Speaker, Rev. Mr. Tebb

On Monday evening next the members of the five young people's societies of Grimsby, the Anglican, the United, the Presbyterian, the Baptist and the Beach, will meet in the Parish Hall when a joint meeting of these five organizations will be held. It is expected that close to two hundred will be in attendance.

The guest speaker of the evening will be Rev. G. W. Tebb, rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church, Burlington, and the young people are looking forward with keen interest to the occasion. Each organization will contribute musical numbers and readings to the program which will be followed by a social hour during which refreshments will be served.

The first joint meeting was held last year and was a splendid success and this is the second year in which the young people's societies of the town are combining in a union meeting which affords a much welcomed opportunity to meet together and serves to promote a spirit of good will and good fellowship among the young people of the community.

Has Biggest Fruit Sprayer In Canada

Paul A. Fisher possesses the distinction of being an executive member of the Ontario Fruit Growers' association of Ontario and has been chairman of the tariff committee since 1920. At present he is making a survey for the department of agriculture in connection with a proposed million dollar fruit storage terminal.

Mr. Fisher has the distinction of having on his 120-acre fruit farm near Burlington the largest fruit sprayer in Canada.

It has a 600-gallon tank, a 35-gallon-a-minute pump and 800 pounds pressure and will wage effective war against insects.

ELGAR CHOIR HEARD UNDER NEW LEADER

The thirtieth season of the Elgar choir of Hamilton was celebrated Thursday evening in a manner fitting its past history, when it was heard in concert under its new conductor, G. Roy Fenwick, Mus. Bac. It acquitted itself most creditably and a large number enjoyed the splendid program provided. The guest artist for the occasion was Frederick L. Newnam, baritone, of London, Ont.

Among the members of the choir is Mr. A. Jarvis of Grimsby.

The annual meeting of the Grimsby Public Library Board was held on Thursday evening last when reports for the year were submitted which indicated that the Library had been largely utilized by patrons, serving an ever increasing circle of readers in the town and township.

Mr. E. J. Muir who has served as chairman for a period of ten years was again the choice of the Board for the position which he has filled so acceptably.

The efficient secretary-treasurer, Mr. H. A. Yenney, was re-appointed. He has served in that capacity for (Continued on page 8.)

$35,000 Fire At Stoney Creek—Basket Factory Destroyed

Fire, which broke out in the Parry Sound Basket and Veneer company factory, Stoney Creek, shortly before 6 o'clock Thursday night completely razed the building, owned and managed by Joseph Platt, reeve of the village, with an estimated loss of some $35,000.

The flames, which started apparently at the south east end of the 165 ft. long building, were first seen by L. F. McDougall, who immediately ran to the nearest phone and turned in an alarm. Stoney Creek is armed with an elaborate alarm system and one signal is attached to the side of the factory office building, but it still remained unaltered long after the fire was under control.

With an enviable record in military annals Brig.-Gen. Nelles retained the high regard of those under his command. He was known among both officers and men as a popular officer, at all times congenial to his men. In three campaigns, the North-West Rebellion, the South African War, and the Great War, he served with distinction.

There is one thing that I have learned this winter, of deep snow banks and prolonged continuity of sustained cold, and that is that a winter of this type is conducive to intense arguments. As is usual in most arguments, a third party has to be called in to settle the question in debate. As I know all the answers, I am the goat in most cases. Here is a sample of a few of the questions asked me and you can quite easily see that the "arguing" is very diversified.

"Salvation" — How did Queen's Lawn Cemetery get its name?

This beautiful God's Acre was plotted out and constructed in 1807, the year of Queen Victoria's Jubilee, hence the appropriate name. Thomas Johnson, then Reeve, was the father of the idea. He did not live to see his brain child completed. He died in May of that year and S. E. Mabey completed his term of office and the cemetery.

"Two Bits" — How many of the championship Peach Kings turned professional and what years?

Six out of the eight original champion Kings jumped to the moneyed ranks and made good. The late "Shorty" Horne was the first one to go, he signing up with the Montreal as soon as the Kings wound up their successful season. He was a scintillating right winger for the Maple Leafs when he met his untimely death in the waters of a Northern Ontario lake.

Carson, McVicar, Reid, Clarke and Fisher all turned pro, together in the fall of 1926, with Eddie Livingstone's Chicago Cardinals, the first team to ever play in Chicago. Marve Wentworth, also turned his coat that year with the same team, leaving the Windsor senior team to do so. Carson and McVicar have retired from hockey to sell the "suds that tickle the tonsils." Reid and Fisher also retired and have since become reinstated amateurs. Clarke is still in the game-coaching and playing for the Oklahoma City Warriors. Marve is still the big shot on the Maroons defence.

Band To Hold Carnival Near Faire At Rink

The Grimsby Band with the co-operation of the Business Men's Association, will sponsor a fair dress carnival to be held in the Grimsby Arena sometime during the month of March. On Tuesday evening joint committees of the Band and Association were appointed to arrange a prize list and other details. No effort will be spared to make it a real success. The funds realized will go towards the support of the Band which is holding rehearsals every week in the basement of the Library under the capable leadership of Mr. Muir.

This worthy organization is deserving of the support the citizens generally and doubtless many will take advantage of the opportunity to attend the event which is held.

Brig. Gen. Charles M. Nelles Dies At Niagara-on-the-Lake

Distinguished soldier, veteran of three campaigns and leader in many fields of public interest, Brig.-Gen. Charles M. Nelles, C.M.G., V.D., died last week at the Cottage Hospital, Niagara-on-the-Lake. His only surviving son, Commander Percy W. Nelles, Ottawa, an officer of the Canadian Navy, resided in England where he has been attending the London Naval Conference.

With an enviable record in military annals Brig.-Gen. Nelles retained the high regard of those under his command. He was known among both officers and men as a popular officer, at all times congenial to his men. In three campaigns, the North-West Rebellion, the South African War, and the Great War, he served with distinction.

CUSTOMS EXCISE OFFICE CLOSES

Has Served Public Since 1921—Councils And Business Men Asked Continuance of Office But It Was Closed Saturday.

In accordance with the intimation from the Department of National Revenue recently notifying those using the local customs and excise office of the intention to discontinue it, the office was closed on Saturday. It is understood that this action was taken as an economy measure, offices in other communities having also been closed.

Following receipt of the notice that it was to be closed both the town and township councils and the Business Men's Association, forwarded resolutions to the government asking reconsideration of the decision of the Dept. and pointing out the inconvenience and hardship that would result but without avail. The office has served the public here since 1921. Future transactions with the customs and excise office will now be handled through the Hamilton office.

FRUIT GROWERS DISCUSS PROBLEMS AT CONVENTION

Firemen Respond To Three Calls During Past Week

Last Thursday afternoon the firemen received a call to the Geddes residence, on the highway west of the town, when fire had broken out on the second floor of the building near the chimney. The alarm was sent in by some one who saw smoke pouring from a window and although there was a high wind at the time, the fire was quickly brought under control on the arrival of firemen. Damage will not be extensive. This is the second time within a few weeks that fire has broken out in this fine old building.

During the same afternoon the truck made two more runs to chimney fires, the first at the home of Thomas Voigt, Ontario Street and the second to the Cosby home on the mountain road.

Truck Operators Must Have Lights Flares Or Lanterns

Owners and operators of all trucks that require a commercial vehicle license and not necessarily the big transports should know that the highway traffic act calls for carrying flares, lanterns or lights, between darkness and dawn, for all stops by reason of accidents on the road. Those lights must be placed on the road 100 feet ahead and behind of the stalled truck as long as it remains a possible menace to the public.

A Vineland grower was hailed to the court last week by H.T.O. Darby, but received the benefit of the doubt when he presented proof that he had lights on ten minutes after getting a flat tire on the "eleven" hill curve. He was in ignorance before and the tow truck supplied the lights, but the traffic officer chanced to pass before the garage owner arrived. The traffic department ask the co-operation of truck drivers of all descriptions in preventing such accidents at night.

St. Thomas Man Found Guilty of Demanding Money From Premier

Henry M. Walker's immediate fate rests with the Ontario attorney-general's office which will determine whether the convicted would be exonerated of Premier Mitchell Hepburn spends an uninterrupted 18 months in Ontario Reformatory or must stand trial on two additional charges.

Mr. Justice Charles McTague sentenced Walker to 18 months imprisonment Friday night after a Middlesex county jury returned a verdict of guilty against the St. Thomas man on two counts—one of demanding money with menace from the premier, Donald McCrimmon and George McLay, the other of theft of $75 from McCrimmon and McLay.

British Apple Becoming Serious Competitor

"I think I ought to warn you, if warning is necessary, that the British apple is becoming a serious competitor to foreign apples," declared Sir Francis Floud, British high commissioner for Canada, speaking at the annual convention of Ontario Fruit Growers at Hamilton on Friday.

Charges that if Canadians attempted to buy British fertilizers and fruit-spraying materials rather than supplies from other countries, as suggested by Sir Francis, that sales companies here would go to Ottawa and get dumping duties levied against the British products, were made by Howard Craize, St. Catharines grower.

Craize and Paul Fisher, Burlington, rose to their feet following high commissioner's address and pointed out the difficulties of Canadian growers in buying the British products.

The Grimsby Band will hold a mixed concert early in March. Keep this date in mind all you supporters and music lovers. Full particulars will be given later.

Proposals To Place Industry On Sounder Basis — Protection For Growers Urged — Quota System Suggested.

The 75th annual convention of the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario in co-operation with the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers' Association was held last week at the Royal Connaught, Hamilton, with about 150 in attendance.

Says Condition "Disgraceful"

It was arranged that a committee of the Fruit Growers will meet another from the Vegetable Growers convention at Toronto. Members are to go into joint session to discuss proposals for placing the agricultural industry on a sounder basis.

Named to the committee were: G. H. Carter, Burlington; H. D. Maynard, Dundas; Harper Record, St. Catharines; H. E. Maycock, Vinemount; George Geddes, Grimsby.

The conference was arranged following an impassioned address by Herbert Carter of Burlington when he declared the financial condition of the Canadian farmer to be "disgraceful."

The provincial government will be petitioned by the association to have the present short-term trucker's license, issued for six months of the year, operative from the beginning of fruit season, about May 15, rather than from August, as a benefit to fruit truckers. A Omslow of Niagara-on-the-Lake moved the resolution, which was seconded by S. W. S. Van Every, St. Catharines.

Protection For Growers

A conference with ministers of the crown to attempt to seek some protection for the Canadian producer other than tariffs was urged upon the Fruit Growers' association of Ontario by Paul A. Fisher of Burlington.

Tariffs had strayed far from their original purpose, the speaker held. He urged licensing or a quota system as two possible alternatives, but did not go into details.

"We've had 10 or 12 tariffs in the past 20 years and none have worked," Fisher declared.

A further suggestion made by Fisher, who has been chairman of the tariff committee since 1920, was that only grade one potatoes be admitted from the United States to this country.

Tariffs, said Fisher, had been originally intended to protect Canadian products when a competitor had cheaper production methods. But now, where manufacturers sought protection of 15 or 25 per cent., growers would ask as high as 1,000 per cent. (Continued on Page 8.)

Section of Lincoln County Suffering From Water Shortage

There is a serious water shortage in that section of Lincoln County below the mountain near St. Catharines and as a result farmers have been compelled to resort to the extremity of melting snow in order to provide water for live stock and, in many cases, household purposes.

Throughout the winter months there has been a demand for water from the St. Catharines city mains, farmers drawing the precious fluid from the Central Fire Hall in from for the needs of themselves and neighbors. For two days last week, however, Wednesday and Thursday, firemen were unable to open the hydrant at the firehall, for fear of breaking the valve, and requests for water were refused.

Water is paid for to the city at the rate of 25 cents a tank and as much as 5,000 gallons has been drawn to the country during a week. Last week water was again provided for the long suffering farmers.

Not only are farmers in Lincoln suffering but reports indicate that those in Wentworth county are in even more serious condition. Not in the memory of most farmers has such a serious situation been felt. Wells which ordinarily are abundantly filled at this period in the year, are practically empty, while other reservoirs which periodically can be counted on to furnish requirements are quite dry.

The ornaments in Figs. 295-297 are interesting examples of symmetrical balance carried out in different ways. 295 has a background of a Dark Grey blue tone effect, 296 has a Medium Grey background also in line, and 297 has a Light Grey line background, the treatment is different in order to harmonize with the different styles of type which they would be used to decorate. These ornaments have a winged torch of inspiration which is especially interesting for their varied treatment of the same idea.

There are so many constructive problems such as these in each of our weekly lessons, and if you are unable to make a decision, write to the Art Director enclosing a stamped envelope for a personal reply.

For instance I received a letter a few weeks ago from a young woman, who had graduated from one of our Toronto Technical Schools in which she states, "after finishing a four year course at the Technical School, in which I won a Scholarship for my first year's work, and in spite of graduating with honours I do not feel that I have acquired that Demonstrate this problem in making copies of these designs twice the size of those printed in this lesson. This is your work for Ex. No. 91.

Beautiful Writing About A Garden

(By Hamilton Fyfe, in John O'London's Weekly)

Books about gardens are to a gardener either very good or very offensive. If the writer loves working in a garden, loves the fruits of that toil, loves weather fair and foul alike, then (if he or she possesses any gift of expression) the result will be delightful. If there be any pose about it, if it is plainly made to sell, it will disgust garden-lovers, however it may amuse or impose on the multitude. For a long time I found no later book of this sort surpassing in charm and interest, Mrs. Cran's Garden of Ignorance (Gollancz, 16s. 6d.) has given me more pleasure and instruction combined than I ever got out of a garden book before.

It tells the story of a plot of rough land on a slope of the Chilterns which by love and labour was turned into loveliness and nourishment. Let us take a passage or two which will show how her styles grips the imagination. First mowing:

It would seem to be one of the earliest things in the world, even as it is one of the most beautiful. For there is the same beauty in the shape of a scythe that is in all fundamental things where shape has been determined by need; so does one think of the lines of a boat or the curve of a wagon. Noel has to stop often to sharpen the scythe. He holds it upright, stroking the blade with the whetstone long its length on either side. He stands thus enabled, for there is no pose that is not lyrical and rhythmic when it is tied to the sweeping lines of a scythe.

Crescent follows crescent, and the front orchard takes on a new pattern as I watch. The blade cuts low at the stems, the ground is a tangled mass of prostrate grasses, their identity lost. "mothy grass and lucerne, cock's foot and the lovely melilot have been levelled by death. Through the heat there comes to me the regular swish of the scythe, silky as the rustle of a woman's skirt.

And now "the real excitement" of waking to a rainy world after long drought:

We look out of the window and see the water butts brim full. The earth that has been white and hard for weeks past is dark grey like the color of heavy smoke. The whole garden is soaked and the grasses are cold and wet to my feet. The sky is grey and low, heavy with more rain; and the storms roll one after another, darkening the earth still further. The lawn is covered with hopping birds, eagerly feeding on the rain-loosened worms.

The British Monarchy And the United States

The action of the House of Representatives at Washington in adjourning on Tuesday out of respect to the memory of King George the Fifth is commented upon as indicating a growing friendliness on the part of the republic towards Great Britain. The House refused to adjourn when Edward the Seventh died. The alterations in its attitude are attributed to the universal respect in which George the Fifth came to be held in the States, and to the improved relations between the two countries which developed especially during the last years of his reign. Mr. Arthur Krock, the Washington correspondent of the New York Times observes:

"The event calls to mind an official change in Anglo-American relations that has been coming slowly, but as surely as the passage of time. Few of those concerned with out statecraft make any further question that the peace and progress of mankind, and the safety of democracies, depend in great measure on the degree of co-operation between the United States and the British Empire. The naval conference has brought the two nations even closer together. It is bad news for war-lords and oppressors of minorities everywhere."

There is every reason to believe that the personality of Edward the Eighth will lend a fresh impetus to this rapprochement between the British Empire and the United States. As Prince of Wales he was universally popular wherever he went on his several visits to the republic, and there is no doubt that the popularity will continue to be influential for the good of the world.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Keep the Air in the Poultry House Clean For Pullets

Use dropping boards under the roosts and clean them off regularly so that they will not contaminate the air which the fowl have to breathe. When the pullets are brought in from range in the fall try to make conditions as nearly as possible like those they have been accustomed to. They have been on grass range living in open houses, if when they are brought in they are put in close houses they may be almost certain that you will have trouble with fall colds and roup.

"I've no place to stay, Mr. Phelps," said Crazy Lil coming up to him as he was preparing for the after-meeting in the one side of his double tent. "I'll take you over to Ma, she'll find a place for you," he said kindly.

"I know'd you'd take me in. Everybody else is so full up," she said going with him.

Mrs. Phelps, raising her eyes in consternation, but complied with her husband's wishes and took the girl with her.

But east and west the forests have been stripped ruthlessly. There has been no attempt to harvest them. Rather has everything been cut and slashed, and often afterward turned over. The result, as has been clearly pointed out in letters printed recently about conditions in Northern Michigan is an appalling waste and destruction.

John Wakefield lifted his Bible and read. Then laying down the Great Book he asked for testimonies, and looked with friendly searching gaze into the eyes of the gathering. Waiting for a few moments he began with his own in a quiet conversational tone.

"I came over from England to Boston then on to Hamilton in April, 1845 when I was a lad fifteen years of age. I inquired for a church, a stranger in a strange town, and was directed to King Street Methodist. I remember the preacher was Rev. Wm. Ryerson and he was so convincing and eloquent it resulted in a fixed determination in my mind to become a Methodist.

Camp meetings were common then as they are now in Canada, and to me used to English ways and England's cultivated fields, they seemed very strange, but peculiarly attractive. I was often convinced of my sinful condition but I didn't want to change my ways because I knew if I did I would have to change completely and give my life to the ministry. This state continued for about four years but when I was nineteen the whole Niagara circuit was aflame with a revival conducted only by local preachers. After several weeks of meetings there came the time when a visible glory filled the whole place. It was seen by all as we hope to see it here, brothers and sisters, under which saints and sinners fell prostrate. Scores cried out to God and were saved; and I was one. I became converted on February 14th, 1849. Thank God, I began to really love my church and my God."

"Amen, Amen," came ardently from different sections of the room. "Hallelujah!"

A strong female voice, it was Mrs. Nash, broke out into singing, quickly taken up by every one.

Knocking, knocking, who is there, Waiting, waiting, oh how fair. Never such was seen before . . . Wilt thou not undo the door.

He continued. "My definite call for service came three years later when in 1852 a camp meeting was held on my father's farm near Stratford. Wm. Ryerson, then chairman of the Brantford Circuit came to me and said authoritatively, 'You must go on circuit work.' His words unnerved me. I felt I could only fail, but I dared not refuse. He said, 'They want you on your own circuit, but you can go anywhere else if you like.' I stayed in the Blenheim and Stratford circuit. My time was spent on horseback; two valises, one before and one behind, fastened to the saddle, readily carried my belongings, library and all.

"Sunday morning I was to preach in the little church in Stratford. It was crowded for it had been announced that a ruddy-faced lad with a trumpet voice was to preach. I had a wretched time of it. I packed my belongings, strapped my valises on the saddle, started for my afternoon and evening appointments and resolved Stratford would see me no more. At Shakespeare in the afternoon I preached from the same text, but got along no better. Then I had to go on to Kite's church, a log building where many good people had worshipped for many years. I was exceedingly discouraged and felt I was going to be a complete failure, but nearing the building I heard a voice praying, asking for a blessing on the labors of the boy preacher coming to them, and borne up by many amens. The mercury began to rise in my spiritual system. I went in and I preached again from the same text, I had no other, but oh what a change. The mercury rose higher and higher. I had only spoken a short time when the power of God came down on the assembly. I never knew how I got out of that pulpit. They told me afterwards I laid one hand on the front of it, and leaped over it among the people Bible in hand, exhorting as I went. That meeting lasted till a late hour that night and it saved me to this ministry. In the morning I started back to Stratford feeling.

My talents, gifts and graces Lord Into Thy blessed hands receive And let me live to preach Thy word And let me to Thy glory live.

"James Rust had five new apprentices. They built me a beautiful cutter and gave it to me, the young preacher; and every one of those boys became converted, I believe because they made the cutter and gave it to me." He laughed genially, his fervent spirit causing those who listened to feel that they were face to face with realities and facts.

John Wakefield's work had been felt throughout all the country ever since that conversion. After that first year of circuit work, feeling the need for more education, he returned to Victoria College for a year, and while there found the spiritual life among the students, very low. After a short time he began to work, facing ridicule and great opposition and he succeeded in organizing a great religious campaign among the students which spread throughout the town of Cobourg with the aid of Rev. Geo. Sanderson. The whole life of the college became changed, in law, in medicine, in government, all felt the impulse and responded to that great awakening. From then on as the young preacher became more sure of his powers, one revival led on to another throughout the country and his name became a household word. Now he stood before them, one of them, a friend eager to help at the slightest invitation.

"Since then I have attended many different camp-meetings and have witnessed hundreds of conversions, many of them in this old Niagara circuit." He appealed to them now, with that same dynamic power, calling for their testimonies and filling their hearts with the warmth of his inspired presence.

The trouble with us is that we so often confuse duty with a petty desire to gain some end of our own—and in essentially selfish end it so often appears to be. We need to carefully examine the inner motives which prompt us to do things before we act. We need to be sure that what we propose to do is right. If it is not right, then it cannot be our duty. And nothing can ever be right which inevitably works harm for another person.

I would like to put one or two questions to my correspondent. Would she like to have her own past recalled in detail? How would she feel if someone asked her confidences? Has she considered what the young man's reaction would be? If he is an honorable young man—and she seems to think that he is—then his reaction would probably be to regard her with scorn for having betrayed a confidence. Look squarely at this thing. One person regards another person as a friend. Because of the friendship a confidence is given, but the one to whom it is given betrays it. What is she or he? A traitor? I am quite sure no young lady would like to be known as such.

Take another point of view. Has the young lady with the past incident nothing worth while in her life? Can she commend her? Surely she can, everybody has. There is no one in the world if we try to find it, there are good points in every character, why talk as of indifference—probably it is a trifling matter after all—that there is to that person's life.

can deny of humble origin, as a social equal of the La Fontaine, rather than a secretary, she meets Piers Hanneu, who forces his attention on her. Lord Edwards proposes to her. Lord Edwards proposes to her. Lord Edwards proposes to her.

"Indifference? It isn't indifference, I feel that I've treated you badly; I hadn't really any just cause, after all, he isn't so bad. He would never do anything or ungenerous. I do feel that I was unjust. And a thought of him worries me, can't help wishing that I'd met him!"

"A very reasonable explanation," said Miss La Fontaine, dryly, and marked the conversational Joan had the Navy ball to forward to when she went away. He did look forward to it with pleasure, for it was a chance she had been to a dance. She had a fortnight to wait, more than once she wondered if Piers Hanneu might be in the picture. He had misinterpreted Al Brook, and conveyed a few tactful words that she was to a point, it was to be a confession of regret as to take it as such; quietly with humiliation on both sides could part as friends, and as they would remain. Only he had on any account renew his affection, and then, she was sure might be kindness both. But on the morning of the evening which shattered all her late intentions, a note arrived at the Salon Celeste asking Joan Denby "to be so good as life? Why not emphasize the dead of the bad? But then, folks who feel as correspondent are likely to justify themselves and then come back with the question, 'mustn't I tell the truth?' Of course, we should all tell the truth, but we can at least wait until we are asked for information, and we can be discreet and use common sense and, at the same time, be faithful. Love and the Man were the Proverbs. There is a time to speak, and there is a time to keep silent. I think this young lady should keep silent.

You recall that poem 'Worth While' by Ella Wheeler Wilcox: 'It is easy enough to be prudent, When nothing tempts you to stray, When without or within no voice is luring your soul away: But it's only a negative virtue Until it is tried by fire. And the life that is worth the best on earth.

Ten Are Seeking 1935 Film Honors

Six Women and Four Men Nominated for Two Awards

Hollywood — A record list of nominations—10 performers and 12 productions—launched the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in its task of selecting film's "finest" of 1935.

PREVIOUS WINNERS

Usually only three actresses and three actors get on the final ballot. This year there are six women and four men.

Four previous winners — Clark Gable, Charles Laughton, Claudette Colbert and Katharine Hepburn were nominated last week for the 1935 awards. With them were Franchot Tone, Victor McLaglen, Elizabeth Bergner, Bette Davis, Merle Oberon and Miriam Hopkins.

From the list the Academy will choose the year's outstanding actor and actress. The awards—along with those for the best director, picture, cartoon, music and technical phrases of film making, will be announced in March.

"Mutiny on the Bounty," one of the dozen pictures from the Academy will select the "best picture of 1935," carried Gable, Laughton and Tone into the competition. It was the first time one picture had been responsible for nominating three stars. Gable teamed with Claudette Colbert in "It Happened One Night" to monopolize the awards of 1934. "Private Worlds" gave Miss Colbert her place on the current list.

Laughton won in 1933 with his little role performance in "The Private Life of Henry VIII." Miss Hepburn won recognition that year in "Morning Glory." It was her portrayal of "Alice Adams" that made her a candidate this time, along with the picture by the same name.

McLaglen in "Running" — "The Informer" in the best picture competition was responsible for McLaglen's nomination. Its director, Mr. John Ford, became a candidate for the award in that class.

Two other directors listed along with their pictures were: Frank Lloyd of "Mutiny on the Bounty," Henry Hathaway and his "Lives of a Bengal Lancer."

Other picture nominations are "Broadway Melody of 1936," "Captain Blood," "David Copperfield," "Les Miserables," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Naughty Marietta," "Rugles of Red Gap" and "Top Hat."

Walt Disney's "Three Orphan Kittens" and "Who Killed Cock Robin" were put in competition with Harman Ising's "The Calico Dragon" for the cartoon award.

The "best song" will be chosen from Irving Berlin's "Cheek to Cheek" and Kern and McHugh's "Lovely to Look At." Warren and Dubin's "Tallahy of Broadway."

Increase Shown Federal Revenue

Total for January is $26,324,717 Against $25,391,928 Last Year

OTTAWA — Total ordinary revenue of the Dominion Government for January was $26,324,717, according to the monthly statement issued by the Comptroller of the Treasury. This is somewhat larger than in the corresponding month last year when the total was $25,391,928.

The revenues for last month with January 1935 figures in brackets: Customs import duty $2,368,628, ($2,701,691); excise duty $2,797,291 ($2,793,273); excise taxes, sale, stamps etc., $3,321,653 ($3,503,629); income tax $3,822,262 ($3,226,411); gold tax ($717,453); Post Office Department $2,509,913 ($2,400,978); miscellaneous departments $3,004,766 ($2,055,976).

Total ordinary expenditures for last month were $22,549,865 also higher than a year ago when the total was $22,652,165.

Montreal Doctor Has New Method Of Treating Pernicious Anemia

CHICAGO — A new method of treating pernicious anemia, based on a theory the disease is caused by a lack of a single unknown substance in the gastric juices was announced recently by Dr. E. A. Greenup of Montreal.

It consisted of preparations of the gastric juice and animal stomach linings from which was removed their natural pepsin, the digestive agent which Dr. Greenup said killed the action of the anti-pernicious anemia substance.

The identity of this substance is as yet undetermined. Dr. Greenup said in the journal of the American Medical Association. It has been variously described in the past as a hormone and an enzyme.

Dr. Greenup described his treatment, which he said could be admin-

Separation of Quints Suggested

Psychologist Advises That Their Individuality Should Be Encouraged

NEW YORK — The Dionne quintuplets should exchange "their illuminated fish bowl at Collander" for the obscurity of separate home and also schools, says Dr. Alfred Alder, noted Viennese psychologist, if they are to develop into useful members of human society.

Treating the five little sisters of Northern Ontario alike in every respect, he writes in the Cosmopolitan Magazine, is not conducive to the development of the individual. He suggests they should be dressed in different colours, given different toys and even different food.

"They should find playmates outside," he adds. "They should have frequent contacts with their brothers and elder sisters and as little fuss as possible should be made about the fact they are quintuplets. Every manifestation of their nascent individuality should be encouraged. This may be enough for the present; the future requires more drastic charges."

Psychologically, Dr. Alder writes, the separation from their family is not an asset. He recalls the parents may visit the quints every day but contends their influence and their privileges are restricted.

Working Out Well

In Stratford the City Council is considering the introduction of the "home-visitor" system of administering relief. This plan, when properly carried out, is proving satisfactory wherever in force. "Visitors" employed by the relief department visit the relief recipients in their homes, keep in touch with them, and have a knowledge of their circumstances. In this way those entitled to assistance receive it and others who try to impose upon the relief department, can be promptly cut off the lists.—Guelph Mercury.

Business Is Business

Did you know that Jim McMillan of Chicago in earlier days made his money by the famous Grange of Gridiron fame? Jim is a former All-American football star. He attended the University of Illinois where he was a star football player, boxer, and champion. Starting early in wrestling he began to climb. Probably, no doubt because he has a real head on his shoulders. He is without doubt the best business man in the wrestling game today, having come through the depression, stock slump and bank failures with flying colors. After McMillan turned pro he played for the Chicago Bears. Later his business ability stepped to the fore and he became one of the owners of that club, acting in the official capacity of Vice-President. Did someone say that all wrestlers are dumb—maybe some but not McMillan—anyway Jack Corcoran seems to think James will be around these parts for a time.

Decrease In Annual Vote for War Pensions

OTTAWA.—A decrease of $350,000 in the annual appropriation for pensions arising out of the Great War is noted in the main estimates tabled recently in the House of Commons. The vote last year totaled $42,000,000 while this year $41,650,000 is asked.

The estimate for the War Veterans' Allowance Act is increased from $2,550,000 to $3,200,000.

General hospitalization of war pensions is expected to cost $3,250,000 this year, a decrease of $250,000 from last fiscal year.

Marked Increase In Cattle Exports

The total exports of cattle from Canada during 1935 reached 112,771 head, the largest movement in several years. Of the total, approximately 103,000 went to the United States. Compared with 1934, exports showed an increase of almost 100 per cent to all points, while those to the United States alone were six times greater. During 1935, over 21,000 calves were exported, as compared with 1,302 in 1934. These figures indicate that the export market was a much stronger factor than in the previous year, and the value of the market is enhanced since the Canada-United States Trade Agreement went into effect on January 1st.

The new United States schedule of duties are:

Cattle for the improvement of stock — Free.
Cattle weighing less than 175 lbs. each 1½c lb.
Cattle weighing from 175 lbs. to 700 lbs. each 2½c per lb.
Cattle, beef, 700 lb. or over, 2c per lb.
Cattle, dairy, 700 lb. or over, 1½c per lb.

The old classification of the last two items was 3c per pound on cattle 700 pounds or over, and 2½c per lb. on cattle under 700 lbs.

Associated with these reduced duties is the quota system. The quota on cattle, other than dairy and those for the improvement of stock is 155,799 head. The quota for calves is 51,923 head, and the quota for dairy cattle 20,000 head. The quotas are to cover total imports into the United States and are not quotas for Canada only.

Normally, Canada secures around 50 per cent of the trade. There is no change in duty for cattle from 175 to 700 pounds. This weight range includes the bulk of the cattle sold to the United States by other countries. Any excess of supplies above the quota volume will automatically pay the old tariff rate.

Cost to Canada in Switch of Governor-General is Revealed

OTTAWA. — Expenses in connection with the departure of Lord and Lady Bessborough and members of their staff from Canada for England totalled $5,555 according to a return of "unforeseen expenses" tabled in the House of Commons recently.

Travelling expenses incurred by the present governor-general and the members of his family and staff in coming to Canada amounted to $4,844.

An item of $50 to pay for the two first notes of the Bank of Canada, one in English and the other in French, presented to the late King George also appears. The presentation was made in connection with the jubilee celebrations.

of Beef in Canada Expected

"The beef cattle market in Canada," said the report, "was greatly influenced during the past year by an abnormal scarcity of beef and feeder cattle in the United States. Early in 1935, prices were sufficiently high to make possible the export of Canadian cattle despite the tariff. This exportation of cattle established a higher price in the Canadian market than would otherwise have been the case. This situation, associated with a good crop, strongly stimulated domestic demand for feeding cattle, and at the close of 1935 there were more cattle in winter feed in Canada than in recent years.

"As a result of the Canada-United States trade agreement the cattle industry has an opportunity for some increase in exports of cattle of weight exceeding 700 pounds, and of veal calves. While United States cattle prices in the spring and summer of 1936 may not approximate those of a year earlier, the reduction in tariff will largely compensate for any lowered prices which might develop. Prospects for exports of beef cattle to the United Kingdom market are not good."

"Hog production," the report said, "is increasing in Canada, the United Kingdom, and the United States. Denmark and the Netherlands are showing some increase from the restricted output of recent years."

Heart Needle Revives Dead

Device Improved—1,000 Humans 'Brought Back' in Three Years

NEW YORK — A new electric needle which restarts hearts that have stopped from angina pectoris, coronary thrombosis, electrocution and shock restores to life persons officially "dead" was announced here last week.

As an example of its possibilities the death of "Roxey" Samuel Rotha, 40, was cited. Had the new needle been available soon after his heart stopped the radio entertainer might be alive today. He would still have his heart ailment, but no worse than before an untimely stoppage cut his life so abruptly.

The new needle was announced by Albert B. Hyman, M.D., speaking at the fifth Caroline Greenwood lecture, held jointly by the Medical Department, United States Naval Service, and of the Witkin Foundation.

This needle is a development of the "pacemaker" needle announced by Dr. Hyman about three years ago. The new needle with all equipment, is only the size of a hand flashlight, and runs on a single dry cell battery. The old needle required 40 pounds of equipment.

Between 150 and 200 victims of angina pectoris and coronary heart troubles, Dr. Hyman said, have been "brought back" to life.

usually 10 or more minutes after "death." But under five minutes is the rule, for after that length of time irreparable deterioration in brain or nerves is likely to set in.

The needle is thrust into the right auricle of the heart. The current is direct, with its positive flow uninterrupted once a second to induce beating. The negative flow remains constant, Dr. Hyman said.

Fire-Fighting Survey Made

Sarnia Conditions, Council Told Additions to Force Necessary

SARNIA — The need for the addition of a hose company and ladder company and replacement of 55 per cent of the mains in the water system were cited to City Council last week in a report submitted by engineers of the Canadian Underwriters' Association following a survey of the city's fire-fighting equipment.

The strength of the present fire department is insufficient in view of increased population and building expansion, the report stated.

Frame warehouses and sheds along the water front at the rear of mercantile buildings on the west side of Front street between Cornwall and George Streets are a fire hazard to the downtown business section, the report stated. Access to the block interiors in the business section generally is poor because of the lack of lanes traversing the blocks, the report said.

Harry Tredwell, president of Sarnia Horticultural Society appeared before the council asking for assistance for the maintenance of the Perry Hill park. It will be impossible for the association to continue with the park without assistance this year, Mr. Tredwell stated. He estimated the cost of the work in 1936 at $500. The request was referred to the finance committee.

"Best Game of the Season"

The sports editor of the Oshawa Times started off his report of a hockey game thus:

"Hockey sticks swung, blocks of white hurtled to the ice, spectators jumped over the boards and majestically paraded up the ice to protest to the referee about a decision, every player on both teams, with the exception of only the Oshawa goalie, joined in a slugging melee, players serving penalties in the 'honeycomb' were embroiled in a riot with hat-headed fans, policemen were called to the rescue and to escort offenders from the ice, officials went around in circles as they lost control of the game, fans jumped over the boards, threw papers and 'soiled lustily'; all this took place at the Oshawa arena last night and in between these 'added attractions' was the best hockey game witnessed here this season."

If that was the "best" game of the season we wonder what the next best would be like.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Saving the Forests For the Future

A recent editorial in "American Forestry" criticized the removal of part of the restrictions on the importation of Canadian lumber on the ground that it would discourage the growth of timber within the United States. As ardent advocates of sound conservation policies, we cannot feel that a direct relation between these two things actually exists. Some of the American lumber companies have suffered from low prices for their products. Naturally they do not care to see foreign lumber admitted to compete with their own products. This, however, is a problem of the moment. The growing of trees for future harvesting does not become an economic problem until the trees are ready for the market—which means a generation or two hence. No one has yet effectively proved that reforestation is not desirable and does not promise to be economically profitable when the trees ripen.

The facts are so simple that they speak for themselves; the United States is the largest single consumer of wood and lumber in the world. The lumber companies have rapidly depleted their private holdings of lumber. In many cases they have created low prices by excessive cutting. In the meantime the area of good timber has steadily decreased. Much of the land in the national forests is privately owned and can be cut at will. And much of the land in the state forests has already been cut over. In parts of the West, important stands of virgin timber belong to the Federal government. A few scattering stands of good timber are found East of the Rockies.

But east and west the forests have been stripped ruthlessly. There has been no attempt to harvest them. Rather has everything been cut and slashed, and often afterward turned over. The result, as has been clearly pointed out in letters printed recently about conditions in Northern Michigan, is appalling waste and destruction. Soils that are not fit for anything but the growth of forests are denuded of trees and subjected to erosion. Wild life is driven out. What might have been a source of permanent wealth to the nation becomes a direct liability.

Donald R. Cotton, writing last November, made the plea that the Federal government acquire the remaining tracts of uncut land—notably the fine stand of hardwood timber in Gogebic and Ontonagon Counties in Michigan. He advocated acquiring land of this sort instead of buying cut over lands. The obvious difficulty is the expense. But it is altogether probable that more money spent in buying good timber stands in the long run would be of greater benefit to the nation than the present sums that are spent in acquiring used lands.

There is still much to be done in developing a sound forestry policy in this country. The National Forest Service has made important strides. The states have added to their forest lands. Private owners have been encouraged to plant trees. To lay conservationists it would seem advantageous to the present conservation movement if for a time, at least, America's lumber and pulp supplies might come in larger proportions from foreign countries. Only if the prices of these imports were to be so much lower than American prices that they would stimulate fresh cut-throat competition and mass cutting in American forest lands would the effect be bad.

The essential thing is to preserve our existing forests so that they may be wisely harvested in coming generations. The more stands of good timber can be saved from present ruthless cutting the better—whether they be in Michigan or elsewhere in the United States.

have a letter before me now from a young college girl, and it raises a problem which has all the marks of "the eternal triangle" about it. The sort of problem which provides good working capital for novelists and story writers.

Without actually quoting from the letter let me state briefly the problem. Apparently there is a young man from the same town as my correspondent who is a student at the same college. He comes from a very respectable family. He is keeping company with another girl student in the college who has confided to my correspondent an incident in her life which belongs to the past. The relationship between this other girl and the young man seems to me (I think that is the most appropriate word) my correspondent. She writes me asking me if I would advise her to tell the young man what the other girl has confided to her and adds—"I somehow feel it is my duty to tell him."

I often wonder how many souls have been irreparably damaged by others who have excused their conduct and appeased their consciences by trying to persuade themselves and others that it was all done in the sacred name of duty. Again and again I have to try and get correspondents to see what duty really is. It seems to me to be summed up in those words of Malachi written so long ago—"What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" If that does not sum up one's duty, then what does?

But come back to my correspondent's problem. What is the true motive that is prompting her to tell him she herself got a boy friend? Has she any on this young man herself? These are items concerning which her letter is silent. It may be that if she will sit down quietly and consider this whole matter, she will discover that, perhaps unconsciously, the motive prompting her to tell emanates from this direction.

The trouble with us is that we so often confuse duty with a petty desire to gain some end of our own—and an essentially selfish end so often happens to be. We need to carefully examine the inner motives which prompt us to do things before we act. We need to be sure that what we propose to do is right. If it is not right, then it cannot be our duty. And nothing can ever be right which inevitably works harm for another person.

I would like to put one or two questions to my correspondent. Would she like to have her own past recalled in detail? How would she feel if someone betrayed her confidences? Has she considered what the young man's reaction would be? If he is an honorable young man—and she seems to think that he is—then his reaction would probably be to regard her with scorn for having betrayed a confidence. Look squarely at this thing. One person regards another person as a friend. Because of the friendship a confidence is given, but the one to whom it is given betrays it. What is she or he? A traitor? I am quite sure no young lady would like to be known as such.

Take another point of view. Has the young lady with the past incident in her life nothing worth while in her make-up to commend her? Surely she has! Why, everybody has. There is good even in the worst if we try to find it. Then, if there are good points in a person's character, why talk as though one indiscretion—probably it was only a trifling matter after all—were all that there is to that person's life?

Well, as we can.

Joan leaves Miss La Fontaine to become a maidservant at the Salon Celeste. Piers Hannen takes Joan and her family for a cruise aboard his yacht.

"Indifference? It isn't indifference to dislike a person heartily. But now I feel that I've treated him badly; I hadn't really any justification for showing my dislike so much, because, after all, he isn't so bad, is he? He would never do anything wrong or ungenerous. I do feel that—and that I was unjust. And so the thought of him worries me, and I can't help wishing that I'd never met him!"

"A very reasonable explanation," said Miss La Fontaine, drily, and her remark concluded the conversation. Joan had the Navy hall to look forward to when she went away; and she did look forward to it with genuine pleasure, for it was a long time since she had been to a dance.

She had a fortnight to wait; and more than once she wondered whether Piers Hannen might be there. She pictured herself explaining to him how he had misunderstood her about Al Brook, and conveying by a few tactful words that she was sorry for her past treatment of him—up to a point, it was to be a very sisterly confession of regret and he was to take it as such; quietly, and with humiliation on both sides, they would part as friends, and as friends they would remain. Only he must not on any account renew his persecution, and then, she was sure, there might be kindness both sides.

But on the morning of the day preceding the Navy ball something happened which shattered all her moderate intentions. A note arrived for her at the Salon Celeste asking Miss Joan Denby "to be so good as to call life? Why not emphasize the good instead of the bad?"

But then, folks who feel like my correspondent are likely to try and justify themselves and they usually come back with the question—"But mustn't I tell the truth?" Why, of course, we should tell the truth, but we can at least wait until we are asked for information, and even then we can be discreet and use common sense and, at the same time, be truthful. Look over the Wise Man wrote in his Proverbs: "There is a time to speak, and there is a time to keep silence." I think this young lady should keep silent.

You recall that poem "Worth While" by Ella Wheeler Wilcox:

"It is easy enough to be prudent,
When nothing tempts you to stray,
When without or within no voice of sin
Is luring your soul away;
But it's only a negative virtue
Until it is tried by fire.
And the life that is worth the honor
on earth,
Is the one that resists the desire."

For the one indiscretion that we know of in a person's life, we do not know how often they have struggled against temptation and resisted it to overcome. If we did, we would be more prone to admire than to condemn. Let us try to keep that in our mind, and remember that the business of every man and woman is to discover the purpose behind his or her life, and by quiet, honest perseverance, to try to achieve that purpose. Only by so doing can we contribute our best to the good of the whole. Why waste time trying to run other peoples' lives? We have each our own life to live. Let us live it as well as we can.

at the head office of the Hannen Iron and Steel Manufacturing Co., in Lendenhall Street, at one-thirty that day at the request of Mr. P. H. Hannen." The note was signed by a secretary.

Joan was astonished, disturbed and annoyed. All her kind intentions staggered under the shock of being coolly "requested" to go to see Piers Hannen at his office. It might be a mistake, perhaps; and yet it seemed very odd. When he had so often had difficulty in persuading her to allow him to take her anywhere—to order her to go and see him!

Half of her insisted that there was nothing unnatural in this proceeding; the other half was uneasy with a sense of ill-omen. The power of this curt invitation was too condescending to be ignored. What on earth did it mean?

She was worried, and so she went. At one o'clock she set off for Lendenhall Street.

CHAPTER XVII CORNERED

When Joan arrived at the great entrance hall of the Hannen building the immensity and activity of the place did nothing to decrease her nervousness. He, Piers, was at the head of this tremendously powerful organization, whose ramifications extended far outside the iron and steel industry. She felt so lost and insignificant under the domed roof, standing on a sea of shining parquet, where clerks, typists, business men and porters hurried to and fro about their work.

She handed her note to one of the porters, who showed her into an ante-room. She sat there for ten minutes; after which the porter came back, told her that Mr. Hannen would see her now, and escorted her up three floors in a lift.

He showed her into a painful office where three typists were tapping away on machines. A neatly dressed competent looking woman secretary took charge of her, and showed her into an inner room.

Joan went in; facing her behind a magnificent walnut desk sat Piers Hannen. The secretary closed the door behind her, while Hannen rose, and without a smile or a word of greeting said:

"Please sit down."
Thoroughly ill at ease by now, Joan was glad to sink into the chair which he indicated, facing the desk. His unsmiling attitude, his formality here in this great office where his word was law, and where everything was silent and velvet footed with respect for his power overawed her.

She wondered what he wanted, and it did not add to her confidence when he sat down again, and went on writing as though she had not been there. She gazed at the short, curly, ruddy hair on the top of his head, as he bent over his papers, with increasing discomfort and annoyance.

Suddenly he threw down his pen, sat back, and looked at her.

"Well," said Joan, with a different smile.

And then she saw how changed he was. His face was paler, set in harder lines, and the cruelty which she had so often fancied in it was there in dreadful reality now. He did not smile. There was no smile in him, not even his eyes; and these made her tired, cynical look which made her think at once of Lydia—Lydia as she used to be when she believed that there was nothing worth while in the world.

Yet his look as he gazed at her was not indifferent. There was something

Your Birthday Reveals Your Vocation

By ANN PENNINGTON

One problem of vital importance which confronts young people, is to determine the vocation, profession or trade for which he or she is best suited. The purpose of this column is to be of service to those who are now seeking help in this important matter. Your birthday can be used as a guide to a proper decision.

Let us suppose that you, or someone in whom you are interested, were born between February 14th and the 29th. Such a person should seek an occupation in which personality can find expression. The home will be linked up with the work in some way perhaps as business headquarters. The work of persons born in this period should involve contact with people and such will find a special satisfaction in social service work and will be happiest in these endeavours.

which call upon the emotions. Some of the most successful kindergarten teachers are born in this period. They have the faculty of teaching through love and understanding and appreciation of the needs of their young charges. A man in this category would be successful in horticulture, particularly in research, finding his greatest satisfaction in producing a new variety of vegetable or more beautiful flower. Fullness of success will come through quiet persistence in the selected vocation.

A personal reply dealing with one important question will be mailed to anyone sending the day, month, and year of birth together with 25c and stamped and addressed envelope for reply. Address all correspondence for Ann Pennington, Room 421, 73 Adelaide St. W., Toronto, Ontario.

It Pays To Advertise

The following ditty was read recently by the Lord Mayor of London:

The codfish lays ten thousand eggs.
The homely hen lays but one;
The codfish never cackles,
To tell what she has done;
And so we scorn the codfish,
And the homely hen we prize;
Which demonstrates to you and me,
That it pays to advertise.

The Library Board has been acting in conjunction with the principals of both the high and public schools in making accessible to the pupils, reading matter which will assist them in their work. The Librarian, Miss Blanchard, having also heartily co-operated in this regard.

It is interesting to note that the number of books read by the entrance class from July to February was reported as 765 by Principal Griffith, an average of 20.1 per pupil, a figure more than double that of the previous year.

Supplementary reading is also done by the pupils of the high school, every effort being made to keep this class of material in the Library. This indicates the useful service being performed by the institution in connection with the schools of Grimsby.

The increase in grants from the town and township, as compared with the previous year and the fact that the repair item was a small one, enabled the Board, with the additional funds at its disposal, to place on the Library shelves several hundred new volumes or about twice the number bought last year, thus increasing the value and usefulness of the Library to the reading public.

Miss Blanchard was commended on the efficiency with which she is filling the position of Librarian to which she was appointed about a year ago. She has been working in conjunction with the principals of the High and Public Schools in placing at the disposal of the pupils of the two schools, reading matter contained in the library which will assist them in their studies and develop the habit of reading, increased interest being evidenced in the advance in the number of juvenile readers.

During the year a blower was installed in connection with the furnace with the result that a substantial saving has been made in fuel while the heating is more uniform, the Library being kept comfortable at all times.

THE WESTMINSTER CLUB

The monthly Devotional meeting of The Westminster Club of St. John's Presbyterian Church was held in the Church Rooms, Monday at 8 o'clock.

The business of The Club was presided over by Miss May Crittenden, the President.

Miss Marie Adams, Convener of the Devotional Committee was in charge of the programme.

One of the Junior members of The Club, Master Ted McNinch, favored with several Guitars selections, which were warmly applauded.

Mr. Tom Archer, Past President of The Club, was the speaker for the evening taking as his subject "The Presbyterian Church in Canada" reviewing the progress of the Presbyterian Church, since 1769 up until the present time.

The "Boat Trip" is creating more and more interest, the "Reds" leading with some 3,000 points ahead of the "Blues".

The Westminster Club have withdrawn their regular meeting next Monday, February 24th to enable as many members as possible to attend the Rally to be held in the Parish Hall on that night, when the Rev. G. W. Tebbis, or "Old Man Sunshine" as he is known to his radio audience, will be guest speaker.

SMITHVILLE

Complaints are being made about the provincial snowplows throwing snow in front of people's driveways and leaving it. One farmer reports he had to shovel through a bank eight feet high and the next day it was filled again by the ploughs.

Greenwood; minister without portfolio, Dorothy Cantelo; speaker of the house, Harry Greenwood; clerk, George Calladine, and sergeant-at-arms, Joseph Whitfield. protection and sometimes be laughed at by legislators.

Some times the U. S. products were a little cleaner and neater packaged than ours, and maybe the trade prefer them.

"One of the main reasons we asked for a tariff of two cents a pound on peaches was so that our canner friends wouldn't import peaches and hold a club over our heads to bring the price down."

Again, some U. S. growers in certain districts would have a surplus crop and send it north to the boundary, where it was easily accessible to Canada.

Complaints Of Power

Howard Craise used stronger language to explain the difficulty of Canada buying British.

"In the past," declared Craise, "on a couple of commodities coming into this country on a competitive basis it has been possible for companies here to go to the dump duties against products from the British market. I make that statement knowing that it is true, and with a fear of contradiction."

Britain's Fruit Industry

The remarkable growth of the British fruit-farming industry in the past few years, and the consequent competition that home products accorded those of other parts of the Empire, was outlined by Sir Francis Fould, high commissioner for Great Britain at Ottawa.

He intimated that the question of seasonal regulation of fruit imports may be a major issue at the coming Empire fruit conference at London.

"In 1934," he pointed out, "there was considerable discussion regarding dividing up the home market, so that the home products would be first allowed on the market at the beginning of the season, then empire products, and finally foreign products after the season had advanced."

This policy, if embarked on would be a satisfactory one to the British grower he felt.

Another development might be an increase in tariff against foreign products, he foresaw.

Want Imports Marked

Growers have been annoyed because all baskets of Canadian goods imported into the United States were labelled "Produced in Canada".

The Ontario association decided to ask the federal government to label all imported fruits and vegetables from Canada's southern neighbour, "Product of the United States of America."

Five Resolutions

Five resolutions of importance to the apple growers were unanimously adopted at the session.

The first resolution was that the fruit branch of the federal department of agriculture be requested to publish colour charts showing definite colour requirements, so that every one in the industry will have a uniform interpretation of the grading regulations.

The second resolution was in the form of a petition to the government asking that values for duty be applied on dates suggested by the Canadian Horticultural Council.

Another resolution asked the government to correct the oversight of potatoes not being included in the intermediate tariff.

A rider to this request asked for a regulation in the United States trade agreement making it possible to import into Canada only grade A potatoes.

Another request to the provincial government was to ask that all buds and scions for commercial propagation must be selected under provincial supervision.

The last resolution asked that, as all Canadian produce going into the United States had to be marked Made in Canada, American shippers sending produce to Canada should be made to stamp the containers Product of U.S.A.

ONCE OVER ON SPORT

DUNNVILLE MUDCATS

ELIMINATE PEACH KINGS

At Dunnvill last Friday night the Peach Kings were eliminated from the championship race when they were defeated 5-2 by the Dunnvill Mudcats in the second game of the group semi-finals, the Mudcats taking the round 6-3.

Starting the game on an even basis, having played to a 1-1 tie in the first game both teams played careful hockey with the Peach Kings having a slight edge. Eleven minutes after play started, Jim Biggar scored on a pass from Harry Reid to put the Peach Kings in the driver's seat.

Two minutes of play had elapsed in the second period when the veteran Jerry Karges lifted the puck from a scramble at the Grimsby blue line, the puck catching the off corner to tie the count.

Early in the third session Green uncorked one of his speedy rushes and scored on a beautiful lone effort putting the Mudcats one up. Phillips was penalized for tripping and Peach Kings sent every man in on the attack but Dunnvill turned the tables on them breaking away twice to score two quick goals making the count 4-1. In the last eight minutes each team scored once and the final bell rang with the Mudcats leading 5-2 having earned the right to meet Thorold in the final round to decide the winner of the group.

Dunnvill — Goal, Blum; defense, Houser, Smith; Centre, Phillips; Wings, Green, Jones; Subs, Wettlaufer, Vaughn, Karges, Parks.

Grimsby — Goal, Robertson, Defense, Hillier, Best; Centre, Lawson; Wings, Tufford, DeQuetteville; Subs, Reid, Biggar, House, Few.

Referee — Guy Smith, Hamilton.

DUNNVILLE MUDCATS

DEFEAT THOROLD 4-2

At the Arena Tuesday night in the first game of the finals in Group 7, Dunnvill defeated Thorold 4-2 and will take a two goal lead into the second game which will be played in Dunnvill Friday night. Goal's will count on the round.

The game was clean and fast and was featured by superb goal tending by Blum and McGreger who time after time saved what looked like sure goals. Play was very even in the first period with neither team being able to score altho both had many chances. Shortly after the period started "Skeeter" Vaughn had to leave the game after twisting his ankle when he crashed into the end of the rink with Weller.

Dunnvill carried the play to Thorold in the second and ten minutes had elapsed when Wettlaufer scored on a hard shot from the blue line, which caught the top corner. Five minutes later Lounsbury evened the count when he pushed the puck past Blum from a scramble. With Turner in the penalty box, Green out-guessed the whole Thorold team to score the best goal of the night. Not a man touched him as he raced in and flipped the puck over McGreger.

Starting the third period with a one goal lead Dunnvill played cautious hockey, shooting from well out and taking no chances. Thorold sent every man inside the blue line but could not seem to organize a scoring attack. With every man up, Thorold were caught flat footed when Karges broke away with no one between him and the goal but McGreger slid out and smothered his shot. Cushman was benched for tripping and Dunnvill turned on the power play scoring twice with the one man advantage, the first by Karges and the second by Jones. Cushman returned and scored his team's second counter taking a pass out from behind the net. The game ended with Dunnvill shooting the puck the length of the ice, protecting their two goal lead.
